
RESEARCH PROJECTS

Horvath J: Executive functioning deficits in disorganized attachment: relationships and thinking patterns.

Zelnick T: The effectiveness of a community arts studio: Assessing change in the lives of participants with and without mental illness. FLINN.

ABSTRACTS, PRELIMINARY COMMUNICATIONS, PANEL DISCUSSIONS AND SCIENTIFIC MEETINGS

Zelnick T. Pitfalls and possibilities: Issues with 'action' in participatory action research, Presented at the International Association of Psychosocial Rehabilitation Services 2004 Annual Conference, May 20, 2004.

Zelnick T. The use of participatory action research in the design of a community arts studio. Presented at the 28th Annual Conference of the International Association of Psychosocial Rehabilitation Services, Atlanta, Georgia, May 8, 2003.

Zelnick T. Effectiveness of a community arts studio: Assessing change in the lives of participants with and without mental illness. Presented at the American Occupational Therapy Association Annual Conference in Washington D.C., June 9, 2003.

Zelnick T. Doing art as a means of creating community and transforming the self. Presented at the Society for the Study of Occupation, Second Annual Research Conference, Park City, Utah, October 17, 2003.